

Aislinn Mullee
Care Manager - Wantage

Hello, my name is Aislinn Mullee,
Care Manager for Wantage.

About me

Hi, I'm Aislinn. I am the Care Manager for Helping Hands in Wantage and the surrounding areas. I've lived in Oxfordshire my whole life and think Oxford is beautiful. I enjoy reading, cooking, animals and spending time with my family. I drink lots of coffee!! I have two hamsters called Winnie and Brooke.

I have a superb team in Wantage, full of amazing carers who provide excellent person-centred care day in and day out, always going above and beyond.

I strive to ensure that my customers have the best package of care, tailored to their every need. Making a difference to people's lives is the most wonderful feeling and why I enjoy care so much.

My experience and expertise

I worked in pharmacy for six years before I took an interest in working in care. I have worked in many residential and dementia care homes, working my way up the ladder. I ran a dementia floor of 26 residents and enjoyed every moment of this. After this I worked in urgent care, minor injuries and out of hours, providing emergency care. After this I felt like I was ready to take on a management role and joined Helping Hands as the care coordinator before progressing to care manager.

Why I chose Helping Hands

I chose Helping Hands as it is a family run business and has a brilliant reputation. I wanted to be part of a company that is continuing to grow and providing excellent care across the UK. Helping Hands always goes above and beyond, not only for their customers but for their care staff too.

Starting at Helping Hands in March 2020 and becoming branch manager in July 2020 just shows how great they are as a company pushing their staff to progress and succeed. At Helping Hands I feel respected, supported and valued. I cannot wait to continue my career with them!
